Russian Army Within 75 Miles of Rostov

REDS NEARING GERMAN BASE IN CAUCASUS

Soviets Claim Capture of At Least 21 More Towns And List 339,150 Axis Dead or Prisoners

RETREAT CONTINUING

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Moscow, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Red army of the lower Don has broken through German lines on a 20-mile front on both sides of the river and has driven within 75 miles of Rostov, key to the whole Nazi salient into the Caucasus, the Russians announced today.

Dispatches from the front said the Russian forces, commanded by Lieut. Gen. Constantin Rokossovsky, veterans of last winter's battle of Moscow, had pushed forward 50 miles since capturing the Don river bridgehead of Tsirnlyansk two days ago.

The advanced point which the Russian thrust was said to have reached yesterday was Bolshaya Orlovka on the Sal river just south-west of its confluence with the Don, mid-way between Tsirnlyansk and Rostov.

There the Russian offensive was rolling into the flat, low-lying region which stretches past Rostov to the Don mouth on the Sea of Azov—a sector which previously proved to be one of the most difficult of the entire front to defend.

Rostov, whose fall would cut off the whole German army in the Caucasus, already has changed hands three times. It was taken by the Germans late in 1941, won back quickly by the Russians, and then captured again by the Germans last summer.

Deep in the Caucasus the Germans were still in retreat from the Mzodok-Nalchik-Prokhladnenski triangle, but battlefield dispatches said there was no indication that they were attempting a general withdrawal to escape being cut off.

Russian forces were said to be meeting resistance after a swift sweep 25 miles northwest of Prokhladnenski to the railway station of Apolonskaya, almost half-way to Mineralnye Vody.

This 25-mile advance indicated a Russian gain of 55 miles since the fall of Nalchik Monday night. The Russians reported the capture of Prokhladnenski, 30 miles northwest of Nalchik, on Tuesday.

The Russian advance in this sector, however, was reported continuing, and the mid-day communique issued by the Soviet information bureau said two more settlements were recaptured southwest of Stalingrad, and several others retaken in the Middle Don sector.

This communique followed earlier war bulletins bringing the total of Axis dead and captured since the start of the Russian winter offensive to 339,150 up to January 5.

These communique had reported 13 more towns and two railroad stations in the Caucasus recaptured, along with eight more towns in the Middle Don.

The Russian drive down the lower Don wedged in between German defenses in the Middle Don sector and those in the northern part of the Kalmyk steppe, and increased the menace to the Nazis in both.

ABUNDANCE OF GASOLINE IS PROBLEM TO REFINERS

Scientist Dies

Cleveland, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Dr. George Crile, renowned surgeon-scientist, died today at the Cleveland Clinic, where he had been under observation for the past three weeks. Death occurred at 9 a. m. and was caused by a heart ailment. He entered the hospital for treatment December 16, but physicians several days ago abandoned hope for his recovery. Recognized internationally for his surgical skill, Dr. Crile was known to scientists primarily for his more than 50 years of research work on the nature of life and the loss of energy that attended death.

James Calls On Ross For Information

Governor Wants Facts On Evidence of Payroll Irregularities

SALARIES ARE RELEASED

Harrisburg, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Governor James today called on Auditor General E. Clair Ross "to inform me promptly of any evidence in your possession concerning payroll irregularities in the department of revenue."

The governor, who asked the legislature to investigate Ross' official conduct as state treasurer and auditor general, wrote Ross after the Dauphin county court required the Democratic official to release a $45,000 payroll for revenue department employees.

In defending his action in the court Ross claimed he knew "some employees did not work and, of course, they should not be paid" and that he required information in his investigation from Dr. Edward B. Logan, secretary of revenue, which Logan refused to provide.

"While I have had no official notification to that effect," James wrote, "recent newspaper reports indicate that you have reason to suspect improprieties involving the payroll department of revenue."

The $45,000 payroll for the Dec. 15-31 period was released yesterday when the Dauphin county court refused to squash a mandamus writ obtained by E. Russell Shockley, attorney general, to compel.

Philadelphia, Jan. 7.—(AP)—A war worker was shot to death and another was wounded in full view of 150 horrified employees, half of them women, in a South Philadelphia factory yesterday after a police today attributed the shooting to a feud over how piece work should be divided.

Patrolman Thomas McBride said one employee laid down a gun after the shooting and waited calmly for police to come. The employee, a man, was held without charge for questioning.

The dead man is Leonard Sabatino, 33, a cutter in the Washlawski and Pusinski Coat Company plant, which had war contracts. Another cutter, Philip Levin, 40, was treated at a hospital for a gunshot wound in the right hand.

McBride said other employees told him that the man being held had been supervising a parcel of work, of giving favored jobs to Levin.

AXIS RETAKES POSITIONS IN NORTH AFRICA

Reuters Reports Heights West of Mateur Have Again Fallen to Enemies

MILD COUNTER-ATTACK

By WES GALLAGHER
Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Germans have recaptured Jebel Azag and all the ground previously taken by the British in the hills 15 miles west of Mateur, an Allied headquarters spokesman announced today.

Thus, within two days the vital positions on the front before Bizerte have changed hands twice. The British captured them in a dawn attack day before yesterday and the spokesman said, were dislodged when the Nazis counter-attacked yesterday.

United States bombers made three raids on Kairouan, about 75 miles south of Tunis, yesterday, the fourth successive day they have struck at that enemy-held center, the spokesman said.

The French army in Algeria disclosed, meanwhile, that Nazi paratroopers had been dropped along with a native guide in the Saint Armano region of Algeria. That is deep behind the Allied lines between Constantine, inland from Philippeville and about 100 miles west of the Tunisian border, and Setif, 60 miles further west.

The announcement said the guide was tried by a court martial and shot.

Algiers had three air alarms last night. Ground batteries went into action on the first, but there was no report that bombs had been dropped.

The RAF shot down three German planes over the Tunisian battle area.

London, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Reuters reported from Allied headquarters in North Africa today that the Germans had recaptured positions on both sides of an important crossroads west of Mateur.

Storage Tanks Reported To Be Overflowing With Fuel As Rationing Is Enforced Here

That long loud howl heard arising from western Pennsylvania last evening was not an air raid siren nor similar alarm, but the indignation of the folks who saw their supply of gasoline dwindling. Just because Pennsylvania happens to jut into the Atlantic on its eastern tip has caused the people of the oil country to be held subject to the rulings of the Atlantic seaboard as regards gasoline rationing.

The facts in the matter are that there is absolutely no gasoline shortage in western Pennsylvania and West Virginia. While, due to transportation difficulties the east-coast seaboard is suffering a gas shortage and close rationing must be made there, this section is suffering from a superabundance of gasoline that is giving the refiners a headache. Storage tanks are overflowing, law prohibits dumping the surplus into the river, and there you are.

The situation in this end of the state is one that is most serious and if some way is not found to move gasoline or destroy it some of the refineries will have to shut down. One refining company whose plant is located within 60 miles of Warren has most of its outlet in Ohio, and due to the rulings made it cannot deliver gas to its own stations and their storage space is filled.

In the manufacture of lubricating oils a certain amount of gasoline must be made and it is this which is giving the refiners a headache. They have rush orders for lubricants which are urgently needed and the gasoline which years ago was a waste product and run into the river must be stored in tankage now. With tanks filled to overflowing a real problem is faced.

Government men are now in the city in an endeavor to find some method whereby the gasoline can be moved out of the tanks in this end of the state. With the shut down rule which has just been promulgated there is no pretense that rubber is being saved and only the conservation of fuel oil and gasoline is aimed at. Seemingly there should be some line of demarcation fixed whereby the ban on gasoline could be lifted in this section and the refiners given the tanks.

Johnstown To Pay Tribute To Favorite Son

Johnstown, Jan. 7.—(AP)—This bereaved city, shocked by the death of its favorite son, Lieut. Col. Boyd D. Wagner, Pennsylvania's ace pilot of World War II, planned today to honor his homecoming in death even as it had never been able to do in life.

First of the plans in tribute to Col. Wagner, found dead in the wreckage of his long-missing plane near Eglin Field, Fla., yesterday, was a proposal to name the new $3,000,000 city-county airport for him.

Johnstown had no chance to fete the young and handsome air ace, popular for his modesty, when he returned from the Pacific and visited home shortly before his plane crashed nearly six weeks ago, for "Buzz", busy with his air corps duties, was here and gone before all but close friends knew of his visit.

Eglin Field, Fla., Jan. 7.—A farmer looking for his cows in an isolated Florida pasture ended the five-week search for Lieut. Col. Boyd D. (Buzz) Wagner, of Johnstown, Pa., destroyer of an untold number of Japanese warplanes and one of America's first aces of World War II.

The crushed body of the flier, missing since Nov. 29, was found yesterday in the wreckage of his P-40 pursuit plane 25 miles east of here.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 7.—(AP)—War bonds worth $2,000 await the finder of the remains of Lieut. Col. Boyd D. Wagner in his wrecked plane near Eglin Field, Fla.

MIRACLE OF PRODUCTION WINS PRAISE

"Arsenal of Democracy is Making Good" Commander-in-Chief Reports to Lawmakers

FARMERS ARE LAUDED

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—America achieved a "miracle of production" last year, President Roosevelt told congress today, even though "we have withdrawn from the labor force and the farms some 5,000,000 of our younger workers" to build an armed force of 7,000,000.

"The arsenal of democracy is making good," in production of weapons and food, the president reported, and at the same time he said approximately 1,500,000 "of our soldiers, sailors, marines and fliers are in service outside our continental limits, all through the world."

Report Says Production Is Falling Short

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Drastic reorganization of war production and a manpower agencies under a sort of super-war was called for in a subcommittee report before the senate education and labor committee today.

The report was filed by Chairman Pepper (D-Fla.) after extensive hearings, with the expectation that the full committee would hold further hearings on a war mobilization bill which he and Senator Kilgore (D-W Va.) will reintroduce in the new congress.

It found a "lack of balance" in the war production program, and predicted that production would fall short of goals unless the problem of scarcity in men, materials and machines was met "head on."

"After a year of war," the report said, "the people have learned that the war production board has not been engaged in the business of war production. They are told that the chaos in raw material distribution, long recognized and admitted, will be remedied by the celebrated controlled materials plan which will come into full operation six months from now."

"The period of our defensive attrition in the Pacific is passing. Now our aim is to force the Japanese to fight. Last year we stopped them. This year we intend to advance."

"By far the largest and most important developments in the whole strategic picture of 1942 were the events on the long fronts in Russia."

"The Axis powers knew that they must win the war in 1942—or eventually lose everything. I do not need to tell you that our enemies did not win this war in 1942."

Progress Toward Victory Outlined By Chief Executive

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt confidently told the new congress today that he saw 1943 as a year of "very substantial advance" toward Berlin, Rome and Tokyo, and he said a "miracle of production" at home was backing the country's 7,000,000 fighting men.

"I do not prophesy when this war will end," the commander-in-chief said, but elsewhere in a thunderously-applauded speech he declared:

"The Axis powers knew that they must win the war in 1942—or eventually lose everything."

"I tell you it is within the realm of possibility that this seventy-eighth congress may have the historic privilege of helping greatly to save the world from future fear."

Speaking from the platform of the house chamber of the guarded capitol, Mr. Roosevelt summed up progress so far toward victory, called the United Nations "the mightiest military coalition in history" and said that, still united, they must stamp out any attempt after the peace to rearm in Germany, Italy, Japan, "or in any other nation which seeks to violate the Tenth Commandment—Thou shalt not covet."

Lord cheers and yells punctuated his aggressive passages. Mr. Roosevelt was reporting on the state of the world as well as the state of the Union and sitting in front of him as he talked were commanders of the United States' armed forces, whose men abroad, the president said, already total 1,500,000.

Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, sat listening intently, hand to chin, as Mr. Roosevelt praised Winston Churchill, Joseph Stalin and Chiang Kai-Shek. The applause was greatest at the mention of the Chinese Generalissimo's name.

Clare Boothe Luce, the new congresswoman from Connecticut, provided a splash of color on the Republican side with a brilliant red scarf topping a black dress.

Absent was the formal attire that was the general custom on such an important occasion in other periods of history. For the most part members wore business suits today.

Mr. Roosevelt called on congress to put aside bickering over economic measures, and to strive to contribute to national unity.

The president's address on the state of the nation was divided into three major sections:

A review of the progress of the war, a report on America's mighty arms production, and a general outline of his hopes for the peace to follow the conflict and for guaranteeing freedom from want and fear.

"By far the largest and most important developments in the whole strategic picture of 1942," Mr. Roosevelt asserted, "were the events on the long front in Russia: First, the implacable defense of Stalingrad; and, second, the offensive."

"Now our aim is to force the Japanese to fight. Last year, we stopped them. This year, we intend to advance."

In the African theater, he predicted the last vestige of Axis powers would be driven from the south shores of the Mediterranean. The president opened his address with his summary of war operations, and in it, said that "we are going to strike—and strike hard—in Europe."

The eventual outcome of the war, he said, would be determined by the quality of our aircraft and ability of our fliers. I point to the fact that, in Africa, we are shooting down two enemy planes to every one we lose, and in the Pacific we are shooting them down four to one."

Here are some production figures: In 1942 we produced 56,000 combat vehicles, such as tanks and self-propelled artillery x x x 670,000 machine guns x x x 21,000 anti-tank guns x x x 125,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition x x x 181,000,000 rounds of artillery ammunition x x x The arsenal of democracy is making good."

"While we have been achieving this miracle of production, during the past year our armed forces have grown from a little over 2,000,000 to 7,000,000. x x x As I speak to you, approximately one and a half million of our soldiers, sailors, marines and fliers are in service outside our continental limits, all through the world."

FORMED HUGE LAKE

During the height of the recent flood which swept down the Allegheny river there was 90 feet of water impounded back of the Tionesta flood control dam. This water formed a huge lake which was backed up the Tionesta Valley to the Weller farm below Kelleville and which wholly covered the old Nebraska bridge. It is interesting to note that a crack showed that the stakes set by the engineers to mark the various stages of the rise of water behind the dam checked absolutely. The dam is credited with holding one foot of water out of the Allegheny river.

"Yes, 1943 will not be an easy year for us on the home front. We shall feel in many ways in our daily lives the sharp pinch of total war. Fortunately, there are only a few Americans who place appetite above patriotism."

"We should never forget the things we are fighting for. x x x The men in our armed forces want a lasting peace and, equally, they want permanent employment for themselves, their families and their neighbors when they are mustered out at the end of the war."

"I do not prophesy when this war will end. But I do believe that this year of 1943 will give to the United Nations a very substantial advance along the roads that lead to Berlin and Rome and Tokyo."

Axis Retake Positions In North Africa

The heights, 15 miles west of Mateur, which itself is 20 miles southwest of Bizerte, had been captured the day before yesterday by a British infantry brigade and commando troops in a dawn assault.

Reuters said the Germans regained the tactically important hill positions in a daylight counter-attack yesterday.

(CBS Correspondent Charles Collingwood identified the lost positions as including the key heights of Jebel Azag, which a headquarters communique yesterday announced had been taken by the Allies. He said United States rangers also had participated in the attack.

"German counterattacks yesterday morning took the topmost heights away from the Allied defenders," Collingwood reported. "Fighting went on all day, but by last night the position was decided to be untenable and the commandos and rangers went back to the positions from which they had started."

Reuters said the Nazi counter-attack was launched after the British had held the heights only for about 24 hours.

Despite the support of the RAF which, it said, knocked out some enemy batteries and shot down three planes, the British forces were dislodged and withdrew to their original positions of Tuesday.

The British agency also quoted the German radio as reporting that 30 United States paratroopers were dropped behind the Germans' North African lines last Sunday night with orders to blow up a large bridge. The broadcast, Reuters said, declared that 20 of the paratroopers were killed, the rest were captured and "a great quantity" of explosives were seized.

All Agencies Urged To Help Enforce Ban

State, county and local law enforcement agencies were called upon to carry out the pleasure driving ban by reporting violations to local ration boards or local OPA offices. The burden of proving no violation will rest entirely on the driver.

The added fuel oil restriction is expected by Henderson to add more than 1,500,000 gallons daily to the amount available for heating homes, apartments and other dwellings.

Both the fuel oil curtailment and the prohibition against pleasure driving are effective in Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, the District of Columbia and the portion of Florida east of the Apalachicola river.

HAS AFFECTED DRIVING

Although the new ban on pleasure driving did not go into effect until noon today there were few cars on the streets this morning. The cut down in traffic was noticeable. Traffic has shown about 40% falling off on the highways in this section during the past few weeks and bus drivers state they pass few passenger cars on the highways, most of the traffic consisting of trucks carrying war materials of various kinds.

ROADS ARE DANGEROUS

Reports from this section are to the effect that the highways are still in a dangerous condition due to the ice and snow. The highway department is making a valiant fight and its cinder crews have used tons upon tons of cinders during the past few days in coping with the situation. The rural roads are all open, the big drifts that formed having been bucked off the roads. The borough cinder crews were also out this morning and covered many dangerous spots about the city.

Red Cross Food Parcels Are Sent to Americans Held As Prisoners In Axis Camps

American fighting men taken prisoner by Germany or Italy and American civilians interned by those countries receive regular American Red Cross standard food parcels and necessary clothing as soon as the International Red Cross Committee in Geneva is notified of their capture and camp location. A total of 5,981 food parcels were reported dispatched during November to United States prisoners of war and internees in camps in Europe. Prisoners receive a package a week and internees one every two weeks.

In addition to the standard Red Cross parcels, which have been carefully prepared by nutrition experts to counteract any vitamin deficiencies in the regular prison diet, a prisoner also may receive one supplementary parcel every sixty days from his family or friends as soon as they have been officially notified by the Provost Marshal General's office of his whereabouts. Full directions for sending these parcels are sent to the next of kin at the time of notification. Information also may be obtained from any postoffice on what may be included in these parcels to prisoners of war, for which under regulations recently issued by the Board of Economic Warfare, no individual export license is now required.

The American Red Cross food parcels contain evaporated milk, biscuit, cheese, cocoa, sardines, pork, beef, chocolate bars, sugar, coffee, powdered orange concentrate, prunes, cigarettes and smoking tobacco. The contents of each package weigh 8 1/2 lbs. The shipping weight is 11 lbs.

Large numbers of these standard food parcels have been shipped through the neutral port of Lisbon. They are carried from Lisbon on a vessel chartered by the International Red Cross Committee, under a safe conduct guarantee from the belligerents, to Marseilles or Genoa, and from there are sent by rail to Geneva. The International Committee arranges for their transport to the camps, where they are handed out by the "man of confidence", the camp leader chosen by the prisoners from among themselves. A system of receipts in triplicate, and constant checks by the International Red Cross Committee delegates who make periodic inspections of the camps, assure that all parcels are received by those for whom they are intended.

Twenty thousand American Red Cross parcels were sent last June to the Far East on the neutral diplomatic exchange ship, the Gripsholm for distribution by International Red Cross Committee delegates to American prisoners in Japan, Occupied China, and the Philippines. The Gripsholm also carried 1,000,000 cigarettes, 10,000 tins of smoking tobacco, $50,000 worth of medical supplies, and quantities of clothing and other necessities furnished by the Army and Navy.

Much larger quantities of supplies have been loaded on the Gripsholm in anticipation of her second sailing, for which final clearance with the Japanese is still awaited.

Ever since the entry of the United States into the war, negotiations have been carried on vigorously through Red Cross and diplomatic channels to establish a regular shipment of food parcels and other comforts for American prisoners in the Far East. Delay in completing such arrangements for prisoners of war is not unusual. It took almost a year before the British could make satisfactory arrangements for sending regular supplies of food parcels from England for British prisoners held in Germany, in spite of the short distance to the Continent and other obviously more favorable factors.

In addition to the distribution of material aid, all information about prisoners of war is cleared through the International Red Cross Committee's Central Agency for Prisoners of War at Geneva, to which the belligerent nations acting under the terms of the Geneva Convention of 1939, send lists of those captured, and the location of their prison camps, for transmission to the country interested.

Up to December 9, 1942, Germany had reported 228 U. S. prisoners of war and 1,491 interned U. S. civilians of whom 788 were men and 703 women. Italy had reported 15 U. S. prisoners of war and 21 U. S. internees of whom 13 were men and 8 women. Japan had reported 1,442 U. S. prisoners of war, 310 Army, 728 Marine Corps and 404 Navy and 1,883 U. S. internees, 1,596 men and 287 women. Japan holds many times this number of Americans, and every available means is being used to obtain from Japan complete lists of names, the furnishing of which is required under the International Convention which that country has agreed to apply.

LAST HUNDRED MILES TO TRIPOLI

The last hundred miles may prove the hardest in Britain's three-month pursuit of Rommel's axis army as the desert fox makes a stand in the wadi region east of Tripoli. The wadis—dry river beds or gullies—form natural defenses against armored attacks on the last axis stronghold in Libya.

O. P. A. Check Claims Filed On Lost Books

Concerned over an increase in claims for replacement of lost ration books within the past week, R. F. Ashenfelter, State Director of the Office of Price Administration, today announced that the Enforcement Section of OPA is checking on the validity of such claims and warned that falsification of such a claim is punishable by a fine of $10,000 or ten years imprisonment or both.

Some increase in the number of claims may be accounted for by the recent announcement that possession of War Ration Book No. 2 will be required to eligibility for War Ration Book No. 2, to be issued early this year, Mr. Ashenfelter said.

Ration holders who lost books some time ago and delayed reporting such losses may now be seeking replacements for that reason, he pointed out.

"However," he said, "it appears that some ration holders may have misinterpreted the significance of procedures recently instituted by some of the local rationing boards, requiring claimants to advertise the loss of ration books, in evidence of good faith, as a condition to replacement."

"We wish to emphasize the fact that advertising of the loss is only one condition which the local boards are authorized to impose if in their judgment it is necessary as a precaution against issuance of replacements when a lost book could be recovered. Advertising of the loss does not in itself validate a claim for replacement."

"Whether or not this requirement is made, the rationing regulations require that before a replacement can be issued the claimant must sign a certification of his loss. Falsification of this signed statement is a federal offense carrying heavy criminal penalties."

"To protect the public and the war effort from the injury which would result from any improper or unauthorized distribution of ration commodities, claims are being investigated and any persons found to have made false claims will be dealt with in strict accordance with the law."

THREE CHEERS FOR YOU from our men in uniform!

And thanks to you from Greyhound

for postponing your trip until after the Holiday rush

Thanks to you, a most critical period in wartime bus transportation has been passed with flying colors.

Just before Christmas, Greyhound asked you to "Give your Holiday trips to men in the service". And you who have learned to depend upon Greyhound for travel responded wholeheartedly.

Because you postponed such trips, thousands of men and women in the armed forces were able to go home by bus for Holiday leaves and furloughs. They thank you for the precious hours spent with loved ones—and Greyhound thanks you for cooperating so patriotically.

While helping men in uniform, you also made travel smoother and more convenient for war workers and others whose trips could not wait. It's cooperation like this that makes it possible for Greyhound and other bus lines to carry on the tremendous mass-transportation job so essential to winning the war.

Now that the Holiday rush is past, Greyhound will make every effort to see that the service you count on is available when you need it—and with all the comfort and convenience that war conditions will permit.

Nazi Tunisia Forces
Have A New Leader

Another Swedish newspaper, the Dagens Nyheter, said the weekly German newsreel had shown the Bey of Tunis receiving Von Arnim and indicated he was now in command.

Von Arnim, recently raised to the rank of colonel-general, is comparatively little known outside Germany, although he has figured from time to time in German news of the African campaign.

There had been no intimation from Germany that Nehring, whose forces have been giving the Allies bitter opposition in Tunisia—had fallen into disfavor with Hitler.

The extent to which German reserves of manpower are being strained was indicated, meanwhile, by a Dagens Nyheter dispatch from Berlin saying that all available members of Hitler's brown-shirted Nazi party followers were being called up for two months of winter war exercises, beginning in February.

pel Auditor General F. Clair Ross to clear the checks.

Ross, a Democrat, had held up the payroll since Dec. 31 after Revenue Secretary Dr. Edward B. Logan, a Republican, had refused to give him information he said he needed in an investigation of "certain matters" in the revenue department payroll. The checks were distributed a few hours after the court ruled.

There were no deductions for the new five per cent victory tax from the checks as the requisition, according to State Treasurer G. H. Wagner, did not call for them.

Still pending, despite the court's ruling, the payroll investigation which Ross cited as the reason for the delay in salary payments.

Coal Shortage

domestic consumers here in the heart of the anthracite region were limited to one ton.

Meanwhile, three local unions of the United Mine Workers of America, disregarding leaders' pleas that they return to work immediately voted to remain on strike.

The shortage was reported after the OPA slashed fuel oil rations by 25 per cent for all non-residential buildings in 17 eastern states. Anthracite is used primarily in homes, but thousands of householders have converted from oil to coal in accordance with government demands.

The OPA, acting to increase production, also granted an increase of 30 cents a ton, or about 5 per cent in hard coal ceiling prices yesterday to enable operators to meet higher production costs. The increase was part of a government-sponsored plan to boost the mine work week from 35 hours to six days.

BELL FAVORS CHANGE IN BANK EXAMINATIONS

Harrisburg, Jan. 7.—(P)—Faced with a reduced bank examining force due to the war, John C. Bell, Jr., Pennsylvania banking secretary, announced he favors lengthening the period within which banks must be examined to two years.

In his report to Governor James, Bell said yesterday "the present law requiring that examinations be made at least once in each year makes thorough examinations during wartime impossible, mainly because of lack of personnel."

Revision of the state banking law would be necessary to carry out Bell's suggestion.

Harrisburg, Jan. 7.—(P)—The identity of witnesses in the investigation of charges of fraud at the $40,000,000 naval depot at nearby Mechanicsburg will not be revealed by justice department officials because of threats to some until a federal grand jury resumes here Monday at 2 p. m.

DEATH BOULEVARD WILL BE OPENED SATURDAY

Aliquippa, Jan. 7.—(P)—Construction boulevard, blocked by a rock slide which crashed into a bus and killed 22 persons Dec. 22, will be opened to traffic Saturday, highway officials reported. Extra crews of men have been moving overlying sections of the road, which threatened to topple down.

Rep. Myron Rowley, president of the Aliquippa board of trade, had protested to I. Lamont Hughes, state secretary of highways, that closing the road, which connects Aliquippa with Ambridge and points east, was causing some war workers to go as much as 40 miles farther daily to get to work.

Local Police Will Enforce Gasoline Rule

Don't use your gasoline to enjoy a bit of riding or the coppers will get you. Boiled down the new order of the OPA means simply this: "If it's fun don't do it". There is no gas to be used for simple pleasure driving in any way, shape or manner. Loss of ration books is the penalty.

Warren county police are in receipt of an order that came over the state police teletype which orders them to cooperate in every way in enforcing the new ruling. In fact all mayors, burgesses, sheriffs and Pennsylvania motor police in 16 western Pennsylvania counties coming under the Pittsburgh district office of the office of price administration have been asked by OPA district manager Walter R. Cartwright to enforce the ban on pleasure driving.

Cartwright asked enforcement officers to report "the owner's name, license number of his car, where observed, time observed and the kind of ration sticker" of any automobile parked near amusement places or those possibly being driven at the time for pleasure. Reports should be made to local war price and ration boards, he added.

Tin Can Salvage Collection To Be Staged In Borough and County Wednesday, Jan. 20

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 20!
Put that date down on your calendar, Mrs. Housewife! Get a great big fat red pencil and draw a circle around it. Why? Because that's the day you've been asking about, the day you've been waiting for, county-wide collection of tin cans.

Wednesday, January 20! On that red-letter day six trucks will cover every section, every street, every house, in the borough, under the direction of Wylie S. Corbett, chairman of the County Salvage Committee (which last fall put Warren county in second position in the entire state in per capita collection of scrap.) In Sheffield, on the same date, a similar collection will take place under the local chairman, Don Brooks. In North Warren Chris Pepke and his committee will be in charge of the collection. In Youngsville, on January 20, a similar collection will be held, under Elton Barton, and in Sugar Grove under A. F. Frank.

Thus housewives who have been saving cans for weeks, who have almost daily been asking, "What shall I do with these cans?" are now supplied with a concrete answer. All they have to do is make sure their cans are on the curb in front of their house early on the morning of Wednesday, January 20, so that the trucks may pick them up. The cans must not be mixed with any other kind of scrap whatever—this is a hard and fast rule and must be observed 100%. Furthermore, they must be processed in the manner prescribed by Uncle Sam, as follows:

First, wash cans thoroughly. Second, remove top and bottom enough to tuck inside can. Third, flatten body of can by stepping on it firmly. Fourth, remove label. If these rules are followed, the cans are in A No. 1 shape for salvage. But ALL cans must be on the curbs early January 20, because trucks cannot make repeat trips due to gasoline shortages.

What will this first big tin can collection yield? Well, it's any man's guess, according to the dynamic Mr. Corbett and depends largely upon how faithfully Warren county householders have heeded the government's urgent pleas to save cans. If the hopes of the Salvage Committee are realized there will be enough cans to fill at least one freight car. This means 33,600 pounds, or approximately 15 tons. That's a lot of cans! Yes, but just how many cans is it? Well, it takes 9,000 average size cans to make a ton. That means that a carload contains nine times fifteen, or—well, figure it out for yourself—135,000 cans. Yes, brothers and sisters of Warren, that's a lot of cans!

But, according to official figures, those 135,000 cans will provide the tin necessary to build 15 light army tanks, or 803 trench mortars, or 6 short range bombers, or 5 long-range heavy bombers. That's what will be going out of Warren county if the hopes of Wylie Corbett and his field officers are realized.

A few more reminders came from Mr. Corbett: Do NOT put tin cans in the Corner Cupboard Salvage boxes. This is important.

Keep on saving every ounce of waste kitchen fats, and see that it is taken promptly to your meat dealer.

Continue to save silk hosiery and deposit at stores.

Continue to bring in old tires for the Merchant Marine Receiptable at the Metzger-Wright Co.

And remember the big Tin Can Day—Wednesday, January 20.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS YOUR TIN!

Follow these Official Instructions by the War Production Board!

Nearly ninety percent of America's tin formerly came from Malaya. And tin is vital to the war effort—for airplane parts, machine gun mounts, gas masks, countless other military uses! That's why Uncle Sam needs your old tin cans. Read the simple instructions below and cooperate with your Salvage Committee, Defense Council, and Municipal Authorities to help make the salvage of tin cans a big success in your community.

Important Facts to Help You.

All paint, oil, varnish, floor polish, or cone-shaped cans are not wanted for salvage. Evaporated- or condensed-milk cans are not worth saving. Put these with your trash.

Coffee cans and others with painted-on-can labels are wanted.

It is not necessary to wash off the small amount of glue which holds labels.

Be Patriotic.—Keep this leaflet in your kitchen for handy reference.

Why "Prepared Cans" Are Needed

1. Washing prevents deterioration of tin coating—assures sanitary conditions—and prevents contamination of detinning fluid.
2. Removing top and bottom permits the free flow of detinning fluid over all surfaces of the can.
3. Firmly flattened cans occupy less space in collection, shipment, and detinning operations—thereby decreasing handling costs and increasing plant capacity for detinning.

Start Saving Cans Now.—Properly "prepared cans" are clean and fit solidly into a basket or other container. They can be stored in the home conveniently for an indefinite period until collection methods are arranged.

Collection Day.—The designated collection day for your neighborhood will be announced and publicized intensively through your local salvage committee. Watch for newspaper and radio announcements.

'Y' League Officials Decide On Two-Tilt-Weekly Sched

League Leading Rocks And O'Connors Clash Sat. in Crucial Contest

At the meeting last evening held in the YMCA it was definitely decided to put another team into a different league, which will be represented also by those already entered, and play a Monday night schedule. There are several teams in prospect and which one will be chosen has not yet been decided.

Due to the players' anxiety to play more than one night a week this step had to be taken, and it is anticipated that it will be beneficial for the league in mention due to the fact that quite a few fans are unable to attend the Saturday games.

In the problem of referees, it was announced that "Diz" Hines, one of the best baseball pitchers in this community for years, and an able referee, will handle these Monday night contests, with a possibility that he can attend a few of the others too.

With two of the best referees in this section on hand to officiate, the 'Y' league will definitely have the best for that job in several years. Joe Waples, the other top-notch, handles most of the games in this section and with Hines for the other night the league is going into this season with prospects better than ever.

The next games will be played on the local 'Y' court this Saturday night and will see the Struthers Wells five taking on the Blomquist in the first tilt, with O'Connors and the Rocks, the league leaders, facing each other in the second. The games start at 7:30 and 8:30 respectively.

Golf and Football To Suffer Most From New Gas Ruling

Pittsburgh, Jan. 7.—(A)—Sports promoters and college athletes officials here expressed belief today the ban on pleasure driving would have no great effect upon attendance at sports events, except golf and football.

Art Rooney of the Rooney-McGinley Enterprises, boxing promoters, said he believed enough fans would use trolleys to permit his club to continue frequent bouts. However, he expected attendance from out-of-town areas would be eliminated almost entirely.

An official of the club said most of its customers now travel by trolley to home games of Pittsburgh Hornets in the American Hockey League.

William E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, said baseball is 103 years old and fans turned out for the game long before there were automobiles.

"I guess," said Bill, "if the fans want to see our club, they'll manage to get there somehow."

Clarence Overton, athletic director at Carnegie Tech, and Frank Carver, publicity man for the University of Pittsburgh, both said attendance at basketball games was not expected to drop because students were by far the greater number of spectators and they use shank's mare or the trolleys.

Most golf courses in the Pittsburgh area were expected to be hard hit by the ban.

Race Season In South Ends

By JOHN WILDS

Miami, Fla., Jan. 7.—(P)—Fifteen hundred thoroughbreds were stranded here today by the closing of the Miami race tracks, leaving owners and trainers in a quandary about what to do with animals that go right on eating even though there are no more purses to win.

The Florida racing season folded yesterday after the Office of Price Administration announced a ban on all automobile pleasure driving.

Tropical Park called off its meeting after 15 days of operations, and Hialeah Park decided not to attempt a season in the face of the drastic gasoline curb.

One dog track—the Hollywood Oval situated 18 miles north of Miami—followed suit and suspended, but others in Miami and elsewhere in the state hung on temporarily in the hope they could get by with the patronage of bettors who would ride public conveyances, or walk.

ELK ALLEYS TO HAVE HANDICAP TOURNEY

Much interest is being shown in the handicap tournament that has been arranged for the Elk alleys Saturday and Sunday. From the number of bowlers who are planning to enter it is predicted that it will be one of the largest and most successful tourneys staged at the club in years.

Major League Officials Still Searching For Training Sites

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

New York, Jan. 7.—(P)—Major league baseball's biggest searching party since Joe DiMaggio lost his favorite bat was on today as officials scattered in all directions to find spring training sites within an A-card's distance of their home grounds.

Undaunted and apparently unaffected by the OPA ban on pleasure driving in eastern states, the clubs proceeded on the theory that enough customers can get to the ball parks in public conveyances to make the 1943 season worthwhile.

Carrying out the plan adopted Tuesday to hold spring training without any unnecessary travel, officials of most of the clubs began beating the brush for practice facilities that will be close enough for convenience and still warm enough for comfort.

Paul Krichell, New York Yankee scout, crossed the Hudson to New Jersey to look over prospective camps at Asbury Park, Lakewood and New Brunswick. Yankee president Ed Barrow preferred one of the first two, in spite of the handy Rutgers University gym at New Brunswick.

Mel Ott, manager of the Giants, came all the way from his New Orleans home to discuss the situation with President Horace Stoneham. They decided to go north and look for a college field house in New England or upstate New York.

President Branch Rickey of the Dodgers has an eye on the field house at Yale University, but so has the army, which moves into the New Haven institution next week. If the army doesn't want it, Brooklyn can have it.

The world champion St. Louis Cardinals and their American League neighbors, the Browns, are considering several cities in Missouri, but St. Louis isn't one of them. They will train together and return home a week before the season opens to play a seven-game spring series.

President Clark Griffith of the Washington Club said the Senators might stay at home and use an indoor arena when the weather gets bad. He also is looking beyond the city limits, however.

Zanesville, O., is after the Pittsburgh Pirates, but President Bill Benswanger said that city is only one of a dozen being considered. The Bucs won't train at Pittsburgh, but Benswanger insisted they would be "not far from home."

Large indoor athletic plants at Amherst College and Phillips Andover Academy are among the most satisfactory sites being investigated by President Bob Quinn of the Boston Braves.

A trio of Cleveland Indian officials will leave tomorrow to look at field houses of several Ohio colleges, including Marietta, Wittenberg and Ohio University.

Cincinnati officials don't want the Reds to train at home and would prefer to be near one or more other major league teams. That may take them to Indiana, since three teams already have chosen the Hoosier state for their preliminary exercises.

The Chicago Cubs and White Sox will train at French Lick Springs, Ind., and the Detroit Tigers will pitch camp at Evansville, Ind. The Boston Red Sox also have their initial worries of the season behind them. They selected Tufts University at Medford, Mass., for a training base.

If that order on gas rationing yesterday is actually as drastic as it sounds sports fans all over the country will be turning to pool, skiing, and whatever else can be done to keep busy in off hours until the war ends, while the average sports writer folds up his typewriter and starts making tanks.

Up to this time, enthusiasts would save their "A" tickets for weeks just to be able to attend a good game of some sport, which they would have to drive to, and now the fan's outlook becomes really acute. How it will affect Warren sports remains indefinite until a more thorough interpretation is given, but if the situation remains as is, more than a few of the sports will suffer.

Some can give very bright answers to that, too—because outside of the high school, there isn't a sport that can be named offhand which will be affected due to the fact that nobody ever went to them anyway.

A doubles event will be held at the Elks Club this Saturday and Sunday for local members—it will be a handicap event—Entries are being taken all week and it is expected there will be a record turnout for the '43 tourney—The handicap will be figured on the average of each contestant and all entries are given the same opportunity to take prizes—Myron Check will take the names at the club.

Ohio State, after turning out one of the top football teams in the nation with their champ Buckeyes, looked well on their way to another title with one of the best cage teams in years—until Bob Shaw, all-American end—was dropped from the team because of bad grades in the fall quarter. He scored 20 points in each of his first two games, and that shows they don't fool around in the Big Ten—Sugar Bowl officials meet this week to decide whether to disband for the duration or not—Travel difficulties on the part of the out of staters, who keep the place going, may force it—Patty Berg, one of the nation's top notch golfers will start a tour just as soon as she recuperates from an accident—it will be for the Red Cross.

Chapter 10 Wedding Plans

AT NOON when she made out her report, Mary was tempted to mention the incident of the early morning. But then, she chewed the end of her pencil reflectively, what could she say? "Woman wearing brown slacks and heavy sport coat seen walking her dogs. Man in grey coat seen watching her." She shook her head. That would bring a bigger laugh than her submarine-whale story! She finished signing the forms, started down the steep steps to meet the girls who'd arrived to relieve her.

She didn't mention the incident to them or even to Porter that afternoon as they drove out to the Mission to make final arrangements for the wedding. She was tempted to ask ever so casually if he knew that his mother's little protégée was a fresh-air fiend and that she had a tall grey-capped, grey-coated "shadow." But some intuition held her tongue and she chattered on lightly about the party, about the plans for the ceremony.

"I can hardly believe you've finally set a date, Mary," Porter said once as they drove through the wintry afternoon toward the foothills.

Mary smiled. She could hardly believe it herself. Being engaged to Porter Lloyd had been such fun and marriage was so—well—final. The lovely old Mission Santa Philippa lay peacefully on the rise of a low hill, its white walls and tiled roof picturesque against the background of mountains piled close behind. As Porter turned the car into the avenue dividing the Mission's orange groves, she looked up at the great bell in the tower, wondered if she'd really believe she was married when three weeks from today that bell chimed for them!

It was the fashionable thing in Santa Philippa to be married in the Mission Chapel—quaint relic of the days when the Franciscan friars taught their simple Indian flock. Mary had always dreamed of the day she would walk down that taper-lit aisle a radiant bride.

While Porter talked with kindly old Father Francis about wedding rehearsals and florists, Mary slipped into a back pew and tried to remember all that she had dreamed. The lovely ivory satin wedding gown that had been her grandmother's and her mother's before her—four of her best friends in matching dresses—Porter waiting, calm and dignified and proud—

"Si, si"

THEN, suddenly, she was thinking of Dan Sherman. Dan and his irresistible grin, his way of keeping his mouth perfectly serious while his eyes laughed with you. Dan who wouldn't care a whoop whether he should stand three feet from the altar rail or four.

"But, is that customary, Father?" she heard Porter asking the old priest. "I thought the bride should stand slightly forward and—"

Mary went back to her own thoughts. Porter loved detail like this. It was sweet of him to take all the responsibility. Dan wouldn't have. "Hell, my sweet, I don't care what the bride does so long as she says 'yes' at the right time"—her imagination manufactured the scene.

Only the bride would say "Si, si" at the right time. Mary added wearily and jerked herself back out of dreams. It was to be hoped Dan loved dogs and early morning hikes on a wintry seashore!

"I am sure all will be very lovely," Father Francis assured them placidly as the three stood a moment in the arched entrance to

Chapter 11 Borrowed Disguise

MARY dallied with her dressing that evening and wasn't aware of the reason for it until she heard the front door bell ring. That must be Dan back from his afternoon of being a Girl Scout Bond Drive sponsor! Her pulses picked up tempo. She dropped a comb, up set a bottle of cologne, snatched up her coat and bag and dashed to the head of the stairs. Then, carefully deliberate, she started down the stairs.

"Who is it, Linda?" she called as the maid passed through the hall below her.

"The florist Miss Mary. I put the box on the table there."

"Oh," Mary felt something inside collapse like a pricked balloon. "Were there any phone calls?"

"Just the Lieutenant Miss Mary," Linda who'd been cook and maid and general guardian of the family ever since Mary could remember, smiled now radiant as a girl with a new beau. "Now there's a lad you could love, Miss Mary. He's a fine boy and you should see what he ate for breakfast when he came in this morning. Eggs and—"

"What did he say on the phone, Linda," Mary interrupted knowing that Linda, given an audience, could go on for hours.

"He's talking to the Rotary club at the Hotel Mission tonight. Having his dinner there. So he won't be home 'till late. Poor boy. And he must be tired too. I fixed raised rolls for him and—"

"That's all, Linda. Thank you," Mary dismissed her with a smile, and went to find Porter's flowers. Dan and his flattery! She pretended it was disgust and not disappointment that made her cross. It was really of no interest to her what he did, of course. If he wanted to talk like a real hero one minute and an apple polisher the next, that was his affair.

She untied the string on the long florist's box, pushed back green tissue. Red roses again! Gorgeous American Beauties. Her fingers, trembling unaccountably, searched through green ferns in vain. No card.

For a moment, she just stood looking at the lovely velvet blossoms. It couldn't be Dan again. But who else? Porter never sent anything but orchids. They were exquisite. But if Dan had sent them—

She hesitated, irresolute, the box still in her hand when the door opened, and her father brought a breath of the chill night air in with him.

Fishing Trip

"HELLO, puss," He dropped his doctor's bag into a corner, pulled off his topcoat. "Hm. Pretty posies, aren't they?" He sniffed at their fragrance. "All good mess of fish. That old Indian knows the bay like the inside of his own pocket." He patted her arm. "You run along to your party and don't worry about an old sea-going land lubber like me."

Reluctantly, Mary went to answer Porter's ring. Why should Dan have been shadowing Carmencita de la Vega? She tried to laugh at herself. Maybe he had fallen for her so hard that he was even jealous of her dogs! The lovely Carmencita—and the smooth-tongued sailor boy. At least, he might have asked permission to borrow his disguise!

WOMEN AT WAR

Sophia

Mrs. Kimball and Mrs. Worthington, dressed soberly and wearing their best black gloves, walked along the story country road toward Sophia Hardy's farm, to pay their visit of condolence.

"How do you reckon she'll be hearing up?" Mrs. Kimball asked Mrs. Worthington. Both ladies wore their most solemn, funereal expressions.

"A mighty severe blow," Mrs. Worthington said. "Mighty severe. To lose your only son, the mainstay of your declining years. And such a dreadful death, too—to go down with a ship. Mercy!"

"The first of our boys from Hand County to go, too," Mrs. Kimball said, mournfully. "I wouldn't blame Sophia Hardy for feeling right bitter."

They stood on the simple stone doorstep, with downcast eyes, getting themselves into the proper commiserative mood.

"Come in!" The voice was brisk and cordial. They looked up in surprise. Sophia herself had come to the door. As they followed her into the parlor they exchanged glances, with eyebrows lifted. Sophia was not even in mourning. The parlor shades were not even drawn.

"It's nice of you to come," Sophia said. "Do sit down." "We came," Mrs. Kimball said almost reprovingly, "to tell you that our hearts are bleeding for you in your great loss."

"We know how lonely you must be out here," Mrs. Worthington said. "With nothing to take your mind off of." She sniffed and reached in her purse for a handkerchief.

"Oh, I keep busy," Sophia said. "I've just finished applying for the Government insurance on Tom's life."

The visiting ladies could not resist a shocked glance at one another.

"I want to get it right away," Sophia said. "So I can put it into War Bonds. My boy hasn't finished fighting yet, not by a long shot."

The ladies were so occupied with feeling horrified, so titillated by this salacious behavior in a bereaved mother—that neither of them noticed Sophia's hands. Under the folds of her clean print dress, against the seat of her chair, they were tightly clenched.

Miracle of Production Wins Praise

reported to congress that 1,000,000 men of the armed forces would be serving in foreign fields by January 1.

The president said he reported with "genuine pride" on military production progress and also noted that "our farmers have contributed their share to the common effort by producing the greatest quantity of food ever made available during a single year in all our history."

Mr. Roosevelt said the nation's great civilian army making war implements had produced 48,000 military planes during 1942, or more than the plane production of the Axis countries combined.

In addition, he pointed out that the last month of the year, December, the nation produced 5,500 military planes, or at the annual rate of more than 60,000 a year, and that the rate was rapidly rising.

The president said tank production also had fallen short, numerically, of the 45,000 set for the year originally, but that production schedules in this category had been revised for "good and sufficient reasons."

Taking note of criticism of production management, the president said:

"Much of this self criticism has had a healthy effect. It has spurred us on. It has reflected a normal American impatience to get on with the job. We are the kind of people who are never quite satisfied with anything short of miracles."

He said that the nation should never be completely satisfied with its war output, but that he could point with "genuine pride" to its accomplishments last year.

The facts and figures for 1942, he said, should provide considerable discomfort to the enemy.

New Rule Restricts Parcels for Overseas

no package may be sent to a soldier overseas unless it contains an article which has been requested by the soldier, and the request has been approved by his commanding officer.

The post office, he said, will not accept a package unless the written request, bearing the commanding officer's approval, is presented. Even such packages will be limited to five pounds, and may not be more than 15 inches in length. Magazines and newspapers may be mailed only by the publisher, and only if the soldier is a subscriber.

UNAUTHORIZED MINE STRIKE IS SPREADING

Wilkes-Barre, Jan. 7.—(P)—An unauthorized strike of anthracite miners spread to two new collieries today coincident with a statement by Mark S. James, Pennsylvania secretary of commerce, that a "great shortage" of hard coal has developed in the domestic markets in the New England states.

James, who also is chairman of the Pennsylvania anthracite committee, appealed for an end of the walkout, shortly after approximately 2,700 employees of the Hudson Coal Company collieries in nearby Lackawanna county joined 12,000 others striking in protest against a 50-cent increase in union dues.

American military plane motors are sealed by government inspectors when crated for shipment overseas.

ORDER IS SIGNED

Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard has signed Order No. 1 which will make drastic changes in the handling of bread. It prohibits the consignment of baked goods to dealers; limits the number of varieties of bread a dealer may handle; provides that all white bread must be enriched and stops the slicing of bread by bakeries. The housewife who has forgotten the art of slicing bread will have to do a bit of practicing with the slicing knife in an attempt to get the slices of a uniform thickness. The new order goes into effect January 18th.

IS BUSY WOMAN

Friends of Mrs. Walter Curcio, formerly Lucile Brosby, of Columbus, will be interested in an item which appeared in a Jacksonville, Fla., newspaper where Mrs. Curcio moved with her husband several years ago. She is now head of the production of the Red Cross sewing center there and has been for a number of years. Under her direction, 21,929 garments have been made and distributed for the war effort of the country. She also oversees the stocking of the store room which is held ready to meet any disaster such as cyclones, bombings, etc.

SCRUTINIZE TIRE NUMBERS

Serial numbers on blanks held by car owners which do not check with those on tires actually on wheels must be reported to ration boards by inspectors. The OPA is preparing a manual on tire inspection which will soon be in the hands of the inspection stations and this is one of the rulings. If the inspector thinks the error intentional he is required not to mention the fact to the car owner but to promptly make a report. Inspectors are empowered to exchange any tire numbers on any blanks held by car owners. Announcement will be made soon as to when the inspectors manual will be available.

fighting in the Pacific, the president said, can be put on a mathematical basis, since it is known that Japanese strength in ships and planes declines daily and American strength rises. He said this would become evident to the Japanese people "when we strike at their own home islands, and bomb them constantly from the air."

Near the close of his address to the new congress, Mr. Roosevelt said that all the United Nations wanted a "decent peace and a durable peace." He added that our fighting men want not only a lasting peace, but permanent employment for themselves, their families and neighbors when they are mustered out.

The people on the home front, he said, do not want a post-war America suffering from undernourishment, slums or the dole.

The young men and women of this country, he said, want assurances "against evils of all major economic hazards—assurance that will extend from the cradle to the grave." He said the government can and must provide this assurance.

Mr. Roosevelt gave no particulars on any new social security legislation. He said he had been told it was no time to speak of a better America after the war and that it was a grave error for him to do so.

"I dissent," he declared flatly. "If the security of the individual citizen, or the family, should become a subject of national debate, the country knows where I stand."

He said he trusted that providing freedom from want would not be regarded as an issue during the coming two years of the 78th congress, but as a task for all to study sympathetically.

Mr. Roosevelt said he could report with genuine pride on the strides of war production in 1942. And, while achieving a miracle of production, he said, we have increased our armed forces from a little over 2,000,000 to 7,000,000.

On production, he cited specific figures.

"The arsenal of democracy is making good," he said in summary.

"These facts and figures will give no aid and comfort to the enemy. On the contrary, I can imagine they will give him considerable discomfort. I suspect Hitler and Tojo will find it difficult to explain to the German and Japanese people just why it is that 'decadent inefficient democracy' can produce such phenomenal quantities of weapons and munitions—and fighting men."

Mr. Roosevelt conceded mistakes had been made and that there had been too many complicated forms and questionnaires. The latter, he said, represented an honest and sincere attempt to see to it that supplies of food and other essential civilian goods were distributed on a fair and just basis and that living costs were held at a stable level.

"Our experience," he continued "will enable us during the coming year to improve the necessary mechanisms of war-time economic controls and to simplify administrative procedures. But we do not intend to leave things so lax that loopholes will be left for cheaters, for chiselers, or for the manipulators of the black market."

Civilians, he said, will feel increasingly the sharp pinch of total war, but he said there were few Americans who placed appetite above patriotism.

Germany, Italy and Japan, he said, must be disarmed and kept disarmed, and must abandon a philosophy which has brought suffering to the world. If they remain armed, he said, or are permitted to rearm, inevitably they will embark again on a career of world conquest.

The United Nations can and must remain united for the maintenance of peace, the president asserted, by preventing any attempt of the Axis triumvirate to rearm.

In his review, the commander in chief praised the great qualities of our fighting men and called their spirit unconquerable.

LT. LOCKARD GIVEN AN ASSIGNMENT IN NORTH

Seattle, Jan. 7.—(P)—Lieut. Joseph L. Lockard, of Williamsport, Pa., the youth who won a distinguished service medal for his alertness in reporting the sound of approaching airplanes on a Pearl Harbor detector on that fateful Dec. 7, will have a Honolulu station again.

There will be Mukuks and Parkas galore, but no grass skirts. This Honolulu is a stop on the Alaska

Forester Says Wood Helps Win The War

In the world-wide race to convert natural resources into the implements of war there are few if any items which lend themselves better to quick conversion than does wood. Because of its great abundance and many uses Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson recently said, "Lumber comes close to the heart of our whole war program. There are 1200 different items of military and naval equipment that can use lumber. Every one of these items has its part in fighting and winning this war. Each day we find new and important ways to use wood in our weapons."

"We are not getting enough lumber to fill all the needs of the armed forces," he said.

Commenting on these revealing statements Forest Supervisor R. F. Hemmings of the Allegheny National Forest said, "Although the quantity of wood and wood products being produced for the war program is not enough, it exceeds the tonnage of steel by twenty-five per cent." "For the most part," he said, "We are drawing on timber stands that are from 100 to 500 years old. These magnificent forests are a heritage from the pre-machine age. From now on we must grow our own timber."

"The shortage of woods labor," said Mr. Hemmings, "is the chief reason for the lumber deficiency. It takes much more labor to work up small trees than big ones so there is no reason even during war time, why labor should be wasted in cutting small size timber. Only the larger trees should be cut and the small ones left. Just as much lumber and other wood products will be obtained by this method and at a big saving in labor."

"It becomes apparent in war time," he said, "that everyone has a stake in maintaining our renewable natural resources in a highly productive condition regardless of whether they are publicly or privately owned. Everyone can help protect them and land owners can and should manage them for the greatest benefit to the nation now and in the future. What better New Year's resolution could lumbermen and owners of timberlands make?"

The members of the Friendship Club were tendered a surprise party by their husbands on Saturday evening. After meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Branstrom they attended the theater at Frewsburg and a chicken dinner at the Lundgren tea room at Akeley was served. Covers were laid for twenty-two.

On Monday the members of the Epworth League enjoyed a party at the home of Marshall Peterson. William McGuckin, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McGuckin, left Wednesday morning to be inducted into the U. S. Army.
